Our clients regularly turn to Justin to handle their most complicated bankruptcy related matters, including all aspects of chapter 7 and chapter 11 cases. Justin has advised clients in a variety of industries, including real estate, manufacturing, food and beverage, construction, and renewable energy. Whether their case calls for the sale of significant assets, the orderly wind down of an operating business, or the reorganization of the company's debt, our clients trust that Justin's wealth of experience will allow him to guide them through this intimidating and complicated process. This was the case when the creditors' committee appointed in the chapter 11 cases of one of the nation's largest residential real estate finance companies needed representation on issues concerning their former borrowers, and Justin was able to provide the guidance that the committee needed to represent the borrowers' interests.

Justin's business experience, gained while working on Wall Street for major investment banks, allows him to offer our clients a unique perspective on their issues. Whether they need assistance with securities law compliance, securities transactions, corporate governance, or anything in between, our clients depend on Justin to provide them with solutions to their most complex problems. Regardless of whether your company is a start-up or a well-established private or public company, you can rely on Justin's diverse experience and knowledge to achieve the best possible result.

In addition to his legal representations, Justin is also an active member of the American Bar Association, American Bankruptcy Institute, Nassau County Bar Association, New York State Bar Association and volunteers his time for the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, Long Island Chapter.
